

United Way FAITH-BASED ROUNDTABLE

United Way
Faith-Based Roundtable

It will take all of us — friends, neighbors, nonprofits, the business community, government and the faith-based community — collaborating together to help our community reach its full potential.

“The United Way Faith-Based Roundtable is a perfect way to stay informed of great organizations in our community that provide resources, education, and impact for the residents of Greenville County. The fellowship is satisfying, the information is remarkable, and the impact is huge for our community.”

Pastor Sean Dogan
Long Branch Baptist Church

“This is one of the few opportunities I get to meet fellow clergy – which I’m always interested in.”

Deb Richardson-Moore
Triune Mercy Center

“I am involved in the Faith-Based Roundtable because it allows me to learn about, and then be involved in, all of the great work that United Way does.”

Rabbi Jeremy Master
Temple of Israel

“I attend Faith-Based Roundtable to meet and learn from others about serving God through serving our community. I can get so focused on the tasks I need to accomplish that I need opportunities like Faith-Based Round Table to step back and see the bigger picture and find ways to connect with it through collaborative action and advocacy.”

Laura Stout
First Baptist Greenville

“The Roundtable participants tend to be highly engaged in the local community, and I learn a lot about what is being done and what needs to be done.”

Rodney Acker
Bahá'í Greenville

Representatives from a cross-section of congregations are meeting quarterly to build a greater knowledge of the issues many in our community are facing and develop new inter-faith connections and partnerships to address them.

As members of United Way of Greenville County’s Faith-Based Roundtable, these community leaders recognize the powerful impact we can have when we LIVE UNITED. If you or a representative from your congregation would like to join this effort, please contact JoKeitha Seabrook at 864-467-3520 or visit uwgc.org/FBRT.
