UNITED WAY OF GREENVILLE COUNTY

2015 ANNUAL REPORT

TOGETHER, WE’RE BUILDING A CYCLE OF SUCCESS
OUR MISSION

Bringing people and resources together to build a Cycle of Success, where:

• all children in Greenville County start school prepared to learn and go on to graduate
• well-educated graduates find good jobs and create stable homes
• children from stable homes continue the cycle because they start school on track and prepared for success

In 2015, United Way experienced another outstanding year of impact thanks to the energy, passion and support of our generous community. With the careful stewardship of these resources as a top priority, we continued to make great progress in our work to build a Cycle of Success.

As volunteers, as donors, and as advocates, you joined forces under the United Way umbrella to changes lives and make our community a better place. Whether you gave at the office, volunteered your time to a service project, or shared a post on social media, you joined a diverse coalition of people, businesses and organizations from across Greenville County united by generosity and a shared dream of a community where everyone can have a safe, stable and successful life.

Right now, your support is helping fund more than 100 outstanding community programs working as partners to generate that cycle. These United Way-supported programs and initiatives include everything from emergency food, shelter and health services to parenting education, afterschool tutoring and job training.

By addressing basic needs and strategically focusing resources in the key areas of school readiness, high school graduation and financial stability, we are leading and investing in long-term solutions that help people every day.

In the past year, more than 132,000 people benefited from your generosity. Children became readers. Parents became better parents. Students earned degrees that turned into jobs and self-sustaining wages. Families gained access to stable housing, savings accounts, and credit repair. These lives were changed not just for a fleeting moment, but in many cases, for generations to come.

Throughout this report to the community, we are proud to share details on what you helped accomplish in 2015. We have a lot of momentum for the future. But there’s still much work to be done and we’ll need your continued support to accomplish it.

On behalf of the board, staff and the entire community, thank you for your generosity and your continued commitment to LIVE UNITED.
THE POWER OF PARTNERSHIP

“Momentum” is defined as having both direction and magnitude, and is an apt description of United Way of Greenville County’s work in our community during 2015.

The success of individuals, families and neighborhoods in our community requires that United Way and our partners work collaboratively to build a Cycle of Success for everyone in Greenville County.

Our magnitude is marked by:

- The generosity of our donors—individuals, corporations, and foundations
- The span of our partnerships—nonprofits, government, corporations, colleges and universities, neighborhood coalitions, hospitals, churches and more
- The results of our work—progressing toward our goals in school readiness, high school graduation and financial stability

It is also marked by the needs we are addressing and the issues we’re trying to solve.

Deeply entrenched challenges require multi-faceted solutions, collective action, and significant investment to address effectively. The magnitude of the assets United Way of Greenville County is able to bring to community problem-solving—expertise, volunteers, cross-sector engagement, proven practices, and financial investment—are why we’re able to create the solutions that will shape our community and its future.

Together, UNITED, we can build a Cycle of Success for individuals and families throughout Greenville County—ensuring better lives for current and future generations.
Momentum is about the right strategies, the right timing, the right results, and most importantly, the right people. Combined, it drives lasting community change.
SCHOOL READINESS

United Way of Greenville County focuses on ensuring children have the quality early care and development opportunities they need to start school ready to learn.

WHY IT’S IMPORTANT

• 90 percent of brain growth occurs during the first three years of a child’s life.

• The skills that children learn early in life have a direct impact on their later success.

• Nearly 1 in 3 Greenville County children live in poverty, and 33 percent of children under age five (95,000 children) live in single-parent households. Both of these are important risk factors affecting school readiness.

TOGETHER, WE’RE MAKING PROGRESS

To achieve success in increasing school readiness, United Way is investing in four key strategies.

• Literacy improvement opportunities for young children and families

• Parent education

• Effective therapy and education for children with developmental delays

• Available and accessible quality early child care
15,715 CHILDREN are better prepared to enter school ready to learn.

SCHOOL READINESS SPOTLIGHT: Born Learning Upstate SC

As part of BornLearning Upstate SC, seven United Ways serving ten Upstate counties are working together to help maximize the early learning potential of young children and expand efforts to provide quality learning activities for parents and children. The collaboration is built around research that shows children are “born learning,” with the first three years of a child’s life proven to be an especially critical time.

One of the components of the campaign has been the installation of Born Learning Trails to provide fun, engaging activities designed to boost language and literacy skills, and encourage children and their families to be active physically and mentally. These trails are an important United Way strategy to help children along the path to school readiness. Trail locations can be found on the Born Learning website, BornLearningUpstateSC.org, or by calling 2-1-1, United Way’s statewide, 24-hour resource line.

BornLearningUpstate.org also offers an extensive collection of resources for parents, easy games to play at home or around town, as well as a list of United Way-supported early education programs in each of the 10 Upstate counties. Parents and caregivers can go to the website or call 2-1-1 for local contacts to receive materials, resources and program information.

“We all share a commitment to helping children grow up healthy, ready for school, and prepared for a lifetime of success,” said United Way President Ted Hendry. “BornLearningUpstateSC.org is an important resource for parents and caregivers throughout the Upstate.”
HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION

United Way of Greenville County works to ensure students have the support they need to stay in school, graduate, achieve post-high school success, and build a financially stable future.

WHY IT’S IMPORTANT

• Students from low-income families who don’t read proficiently by 3rd grade are 13 times more likely to drop out.

• Almost 30 percent of eighth grade students fail state standards tests for math and reading.

• One out of every four students won’t graduate from high school on time.

• More high school graduates will improve our community’s economic competitiveness by reducing re-education and job training costs.

TOGETHER, WE’RE MAKING PROGRESS

To achieve success in increasing high school graduation and post-high school success, United Way is investing in five key strategies.

• Quality mentoring, tutoring and after-school opportunities

• Reduction of risky adolescent behavior

• Youth engagement

• Reduction of post-secondary skills gap

• Providing pathways to college
Making sure all of Greenville County’s children achieve the important milestone of high school graduation is fundamental to building a Cycle of Success.

What began as a United Way strategy to improve middle grade success has grown to become OnTrack Greenville. Launched by community partners in May 2015 (see photo above), OnTrack Greenville is a community initiative that is changing the way we keep students on track to high school graduation and future success by bringing collaboration to a new level.

Inside some of the highest-need middle schools in our community, hundreds of people—from teachers and school administrators to health care professionals, nonprofits and community volunteers—are rallying together under the banner of OnTrack Greenville. The goal is to identify students with academic, behavior or course performance challenges early and move quickly to address the unique needs of individual students and their families.

While the challenges faced by students and their families are many, Communities In Schools’ Rushawnda Olden sees the difference United Way and our OnTrack Greenville partners are making.

“United Way is creating a change in our community,” she said. “Through United Way and the OnTrack initiative, my students have hope. With that little piece of hope, they’re seeing a future.”

See more about the OnTrack Greenville story at unitedwaygc.org/cyclestories.
FINANCIAL STABILITY

United Way of Greenville County is working to provide a continuum of strategies to help individuals and families meet basic needs and save for things like an education, a home or retirement.

WHY IT’S IMPORTANT

• 16.6 percent of individuals lived below the poverty line in 2012, a key factor in financial stability.

• 14.1 percent (63,810) of the county is food insecure.

• A parent’s education level and income are both key contributing factors to a child’s future success.

• 20 percent of children (5,000) under age 5 have parents who did not graduate from high school.

TOGETHER, WE’RE MAKING PROGRESS

To achieve success in increasing financial stability, United Way is investing in six key strategies.

• Employment skills development

• Sustainable employment and supportive services

• Integrated service delivery/multi-service centers

• Connecting financial products/services and building savings

• Financial literacy

• Affordable housing
Led by United Way Women’s Leadership, the Jobs to Careers—Women Helping Women Scholarship program is empowering women to achieve their dreams. Recipients receive assistance with their tuition and books, but they also get help with expenses for common barriers to success like transportation and childcare, as well as mentoring from Women’s Leadership members.

So far, $220,000 in scholarships have been awarded to 35 women who are writing their own success stories. To date, 29 women have graduated and started their new careers, building a Cycle of Success for themselves and their families.

Without Women’s Leadership and the Jobs to Careers scholarship, Lena Acker says she would have fallen short of achieving her dreams. Struggling to keep up with the stress of life, school work and tuition payments, Lena was awarded a scholarship right as she was on the verge of giving up on her career goals. “This scholarship saved me and gave me the second wind that I needed to continue my race to the finish line,” she said.

For Lena, that finish line is a degree and a career as a registered nurse—a position that fulfills her desire to help people when they need it most. “I know how important it is to have someone there in moments of pain,” she said. “I thank Women’s Leadership and the Jobs to Careers scholarship for being there for me so that I, too, can one day be there to help someone else.”

9,340 PEOPLE are closer to achieving financial stability.
